Mr. Cox matriculated at UC Berkeley where he obtained a degree in Psychology, with emphases on human development, personality disorders, and family dynamics. Thereafter, he graduated from the University of San Francisco School of Law in 1989, where he was recognized for his trial practice and appellate advocacy skills. He was admitted to the California State Bar in 1990.

A former partner in a well known San Francisco civil litigation firm, Mr. Cox has extensive trial experience in matters involving family law, business and contractual disputes.

As a father of a young daughter and himself the victim of false domestic violence allegations, Curtis focuses his current practice on representing fathers in marital dissolutions, custody, visitation and support disputes, and against allegations of domestic violence. His cases are generally in Riverside and San Bernardino, where he is very familiar with the family law courts. You'll find Curtis generally in the DadsLaw Orange and Riverside offices.
